Police cuts include front desk

THE front desk of Haverhill police station will be closed to the public from April next year.

The change comes as part of a package of cost-cutting measures introduced by Suffolk Constabulary.

Only the front counters at police stations in Ipswich, Lowestoft and Bury St Edmunds will remain open.

A spokesperson for Suffolk Police said: "The police stations will remain operational... only the front counter will close.

"Should members of the public need to contact the police, a 24/7 intercom system is in place outside the station which provides direct access to the force control room.

"Police can be contacted at any time of the day or night by dialling 101, or 999 in an emergency, for an urgent police response."

Jobs are also being axed, with 68 PCSO roles being cut, as well as 26 police officer roles and 17 police staff roles. A total of 232 jobs have been placed "at risk" across the county, although efforts will be made to move individuals to other posts.

The changes come as Suffolk Police aims to make savings of £20.5million by March 2020.

Temporary Chief Constable Gareth Wilson said: "It is with much regret that we have had to reduce the size of our workforce, as every member of the organisation plays a valuable role in keeping our communities safe.

"With around 80% of our budget spent on people, however, it has been necessary to reduce our teams."

Other changes include a reduction in the number of Safer Neighbourhood teams from 29 to 18.

Haverhill Town Council will be discussing its response to the cuts at a meeting of the full council on Monday at 7.30pm at the Leiston Community Centre in Leiston Road.

HARD WORK: The team of Castle Manor students who organised the project

Teens make up parcels for charity

TEENAGERS have given up their spare time to make packages of essential items for people less fortunate than themselves this Christmas.

Castle Manor sixth form students Bradley Call and Charlie Firman led a team of nine in a social action project to support charity Action for Children.

With the help of their school and other local groups, the team put together 96 shoebox packages and four large hampers for 16-24 year olds in shared accommodation.

The packages contain essentials like toothpaste and body wash, and will be handed out across the county.

Bradley said: "Our initial target was to make 15 boxes, so our final total of 96 and four hampers is amazing."

HOUSING

Elderly's flats are rented out

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

AN 89-year-old man says that he and other pensioners "haven't been treated like human beings" – after discovering the flats they were told to leave are being occupied by young professionals.

Cecil Bailey – known to his friends as Bill – moved into sheltered accommodation in William Blake Court, owned by Havebury Housing, two years after his disabled wife died in 2003.

After being told that William Blake Court was not fit for purpose, Mr Bailey and 12 other residents were moved into new Havebury accommodation in Withersfield Road on October 15.

"They don't realise what a traumatic experience it is for people like us to move," he said.

He was shocked when his niece, Sheila Johnson, told him that the flats in William Blake Court were being advertised online.

"They haven't treated us like human beings at all," he said.

The flats are being advertised by property guardianship company Ad Hoc. Property guardianship is a scheme in which vacated properties are occupied in order to prevent squatting and vandalism while the future of the building is decided.

Shocked: Cecil Bailey

Ad Hoc started advertising for 'guardians' shortly before Mr Bailey and the other elderly residents moved out. Currently, 10 of the 30 flats they are managing are occupied.

The 'guardians' who occupy the properties can be asked to leave at short notice and so need to be flexible in their living arrangements.

Ad Hoc manager Sarah Reid said: "It's very, very strict criteria: they have to be over 21, employed, professional people who speak good English."

This means that despite the cheap rent paid by property guardians, many people on the waiting list for social housing, who are elderly, or have children or pets, would not be eligible for the scheme.

Philip Sullivan, director of operations at Havebury Housing Partnership, said: "William Blake Court was closed, following consultation, as the bedsit and shared bathroom accommodation was no longer fit for purpose and had been affected by falling demand. Havebury is currently considering options for the future of the site.

"To reduce the risk of vandalism and remove costs such as temporary boarding, the scheme is being occupied temporarily by a property guardianship scheme. The company assigns 'guardians' to occupy the rooms and they provide security.

"A number of residents decided to move to the new scheme at Withersfield Road which provides modern facilities in self-contained flats and bungalows. Tenants continue to have the option of support from an independent living advisor as well as access to a 24 hour life-line service."

FUNERALS

Want to be a firework or a tree when you die?

ASHES to ashes, dust to – fireworks?

It's not quite the send-off you expect, but one Haverhill man has co-founded a company that allows you to get your cremated remains turned into fireworks or diamonds.

Paul Bailey, who grew up in Haverhill, started Alternative Endings with his friend Kevin Foy two years ago.

Paul, who attended Castle Manor School, said: "A person close to me died and they wanted an alternative funeral – they wanted a cardboard coffin.

"I started looking into it and realised a conventional funeral wasn't what everyone wanted."

There are a huge number of options offered by Alternative Endings. You can get your ashes rocketed into space, sent out to sea, turned into a sculpture or even into a vinyl record.

Former policeman Paul said choosing to set up Alternative Endings was a response to noticing a change in attitudes towards dying.

He said: "There seemed to be a sort of sea change in how people were viewing death. Even at football matches where people used to have a minute's silence they were clapping instead.

"I think a lot of it is that people's perceptions of death are changing and there's the idea that they want to have a celebration of their life as opposed to a morbid Victorian ending."

Now the alternative funeral company is seeking the help of local residents as they launch a new project.

They are looking for a plot of land in or around Haverhill or Newmarket where they could create an "eco woodland memorial park".

An alternative to a cemetery, the green space would see ashes planted in eco urns that contain seeds and biodegrade, so that trees would spring up to mark the spot where the person's remains were buried.

"The idea is that people can go there with their families," said Paul. He said that the plot would need to be near a road so that it was easy to travel to, and that ideally it would have some trees on it already.

Paul and Kevin need funding as well as a plot of land to make the woodland graveyard dream come true.

They have set up a crowdfunding page to raise money for the idea, and people who donate can receive various services from Alternative Endings.

Paul said: "Some people might be a bit more flamboyant in life.

"Some people want that traditional send-off but there're a lot of people out there who would like to go to something different. By becoming a tree they go back to nature."

COURT

Retrial for priest accused of fraud

A CLERGYMAN is to face a retrial over allegations he defrauded his own church.

Last month, a jury at Ipswich Crown Court was discharged after failing to reach a verdict in the case of the Rev Ian Finn, 57, rector of St Mary the Virgin in Haverhill.

On Tuesday, Judge David Goodin was told that the Crown Prosecution Service wanted a retrial.

The trial, which could last up to six days, is set to start on June 27 next year. Until then Finn will remain on bail.

Finn, of Hopton Rise, Haverhill, has been accused of fraud by abuse of position in respect of £12,707 of undeclared fees for funerals and reading wedding banns. The offence is alleged to have been committed between June, 2007, and March, 2014 at Haverhill.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Free Christmas lunch

A LUNCH club for the elderly will be holding its Christmas event on Tuesday.

The Soup-A-Lunch Christmas lunch will take place at midday at the Leiston Centre, Haverhill.

As well as the usual soup and roll there will be Christmas pudding, mince pies, and other treats, and Christmas music from the children of Clements Primary School.

The event has been funded by town councillor Jason Crooks. To book a place call Joan Key on (01440)

Armed police called

POLICE were called to Hanchett End, Haverhill, on Monday, after receiving a report of a person acting suspiciously, who may have been carrying a gun under their coat.

Four police cars and armed officers attended and searched the scene after the 11.35am call, but no weapons or suspects were found.

Inspector Peter Ferrie, of Haverhill police, said they were grateful to the caller. You can contact police on 101.

Vandals strike

VANDALS damaged a defibrillator cabinet with white paint in Haverhill – and daubed a name on it.
Police are appealing for witnesses following the incident which took place at Haverhill Rugby Club, School Lane, some time between 8pm on Wednesday, December 2, and 9am on Thursday, December 3.
Call police on 101.

LIGHTS SWITCH-ON

for Christmas!

AROUND 7,000 people turned out on Friday night for a Christmas extravanganza in Haverhill town centre – which the organisers say is the biggest turnout they have ever seen.

The crowds turned out for the annual Christmas lights switch-on to enjoy shopping, activities and fireworks.

The lights switch-on itself took place at 6.30pm, with special guest Radio 2 presenter Janey Lee Grace doing the honours. She will be playing the Fairy Godmother in Haverhill's panto this year, and was in full costume.

Mayor of Haverhill, Betty McLatchy, also helped to switch on the lights. She said: "It was fabulous. I was proud to be part of it. It was a huge night – I've never ever seen so many people on the High Street."

There was plenty more going on in Haverhill town centre. There were rides and games lining the high street, alongside shopping stalls and a crafts fair in the arts centre.

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

The town council had listened to feedback last year and chosen a selection of smaller children's rides than those in 2014.

Street entertainers roamed the street, including Anton the Juggler and the Swervy World band, while at the Burton Centre you could ride a rodeo reindeer.

Queen's Square was transformed into Santa's Grotto by the businesses based there. They put on live music, dressing up, photos and hot drinks.

David Doughty, who runs The Gallery in Queen's Square, said: "We were overwhelmed by a constant queue for three and a half hours. It went better than we could have imagined."

At 8pm the evening concluded with a spectacular firework display on the recreation ground in Camps Road.

Organiser Nick Keeble, arts and leisure manager at Haverhill Arts Centre, said: "It was really well supported. I really don't think I've ever seen more people at the firework display. The feedback was 100 per cent positive, especially about the fireworks."

The festivities continued into Saturday, with electric hamster racing and entertainments in the town centre.

After the event, a picture of the town Christmas tree with the lights pulled onto one side caused controversy on social media.

This was due to vandalism, and the Christmas lights installation team have rearranged them. A number of light strings were broken or stretched, the bill for which will be met by the town council.

The town council is keen to hear what you thought of the event. It will shortly be launching an online feedback survey. In the meantime, if you have any thoughts about the evening, email Nick at nick.keeble@haverhill-tc.gov.uk.

It is time to take action

IN reply to Avril Dawson, bombing may not be the answer but nor is murder.
As the saying goes you live by the gun you die by it.
If we do not act, how long will it be before it comes to our shores? If it was one of my family who was killed by these people I would be asking what is being done to protect us when we are abroad.

They sold my uncle's home

COULD someone please explain why the original senior residents of William Blake Court in Haverhill were forced to move from there, into a new property along Withersfield Road?
They were given no option, they had to move as they were told that William Blake was no longer fit for purpose and needed to be pulled down.
My uncle was one of these people. At 89 years old he suffered a lot of stress and upheaval and unnecessary worry.
Imagine my shock when searching for properties I noticed Rightmove advertising the William Blake Court flats for lease.
To quote from the website: "Professionals, £310 per calender month per person including gas, water and electricity, you must be working full or part time and have no pets or live-in dependants."
My sister queried the day my uncle moved why chairs were being taken in when residents were being made to move out; she was told it was none of her business. Well I think it is our business.
Have they sold the property to a private landlord like they did with the council house along Recreation Road?
When my niece, desperate for somewhere to live, begged to take it as seen, to rent, (despite the old bathroom and kitchen etc) she was told they would make more money selling it and that is what they did.
When there is such a long waiting list for houses that are affordable to rent, and the council cannot fill that need, why are we selling properties off to private investors, that will not take families with a child or pets?
It's disgraceful that they are allowed to do it; they put a lot of elderly people through a lot of stress.
Forced to move, the only view my uncle has to look at now is the window of the house opposite or the wall of the shop on the corner. At 89 years old, he cannot go out alone now because he cannot cross the busy main road.
On top of this, by selling it in such a way, they are penalising the people that are actually the ones who need houses.
For 10 years or more my niece has been waiting for a council property. She works but because she has a cat and a son she cannot private rent.
Private landlords do not seem to like pets and some do not like children it would seem.
It sickens me that we watched our uncle subjected to so much trauma by this enforced move, that Havebury have been allowed to treat people with such contempt and lack of compassion.
It would seem that the old saying you are just a number is true when it comes to Havebury Housing, people mean nothing and pounds mean everything.
I imagine their response will be "we are building over 2,000 new homes in Haverhill".
My response to that is we wouldn't need them if you did not keep selling properties off to private investors who are pushing rental prices so high the average person cannot afford it.
I guess the next one will be Place Farm will it?

Family Christmas Concert – Sunday, December 6
EVERYONE was soon in a happy Christmas mood at the Family Christmas Concert held at the Haverhill Arts Centre on Sunday. In the first half of the concert we heard a variety of music from the Haverhill Youth and Community Band, the excellent playing included solo performances from two of their youngest members, Hannah and Noah. Audience participation was encouraged by their conductor, Di Pannell, with a Christmas quiz and children's paper chain making competition.
In the second half we were treated to the powerful sounds of Haverhill Silver Band, a Championship section band, under the baton of Mark Ager. Music ranged from the 1948 Sleigh Ride right up to a present day version of Good King Wenceslas. The programme also featured solo euphonium player Anthony Sanders with a lovely rendition of Oh Holy Night. The concert finished with both bands on stage for "Rudolph Around the World".
I am now looking forward to a festival of Christmas music when the band is joined by choir and organ at the "Carols for All" in the Old Independent Church on Sunday, December 20, a magical start to Christmas . . . not to be missed.

'Parkour took me from film fan to stunt man'

FREE RUNNING: Shane Griffin in action

Picture: Scott Bass

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

WHEN he was growing up, Shane Griffin loved films with Jackie Chan and Bruce Lee. He wanted to move like the martial arts stars he saw on screen.

"I kind of got attracted to that kind of movement," he said. "I started to try it out and got into that. I didn't really fit into a class and I naturally fell into free running."

For those who don't already know, free running, also known as parkour, is a way of creatively moving through urban spaces.

Shane said: "It's a natural way of moving through obstacles and through your environment, that combines disciplines. You have got a base of moves, and you land and you go off. You can take from dance, from martial arts. It's kind of like gymnastucs but there's not that structure."

Twelve years after starting to try it out, Shane, now 26, is training to be a stunt man, has appeared as a free runner on TV, and says he will be appearing in a major feature film that comes out next year.

"I've always had it in my mind to be a stunt man, but it didn't really seem obtainable – it was one of those dreams," he said.

But this year, after jobs including going to Take That singer Gary Owen's house dressed as spiderman and doing backflips in costume in London for TV show Nissan GT Academy, everything has changed.

"I was like: 'I am going to take things more seriously, because this could actually happen now," he said. He joined a casting agency, Ray Knight, and has appearances in a feature film and a Netflix TV show coming up next year.

Shane, who lives in Haverhill's Burton End with his mum and sister, hasn't forgotten the free-running community in Haverhill.

He practises parkour with his brother in Haverhill's market square, and coaches students at Samuel Ward Academy in free running, cheerleading and gymnastics.

Keep your eyes peeled next year to see this local man performing on screen.

GIVING TREE: Staff at Haverhill Leisure Centre launch the appeal for presents

Put a child's present under the tree

YOU could bring some festive cheer to a child spending Christmas in hospital by getting involved with a festive appeal.

Haverhill Leisure Centre is launching its fifth annual Giving Tree appeal for the Addenbrooke's childrens ward.

Visitors to the centre are invited to take a tag from the tree which will tell them what age range to buy a present for.

You can then go and buy a present and return it wrapped to the staff at the leisure centre.

The appeal is being run by Abbeycroft Leisure in partnership with St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

All presents must be handed in by 5pm on Wednesday, December 16.

ONE HAVERHILL

Board will now meet in public

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

A COMMUNITY partnership is to start holding its meetings in public after the town council threatened to leave over the issue.

The board of ONE Haverhill – which includes representatives from community groups including business, schools and local government – drew up new terms of reference at a meeting on Thursday last week.

One of the new terms of reference is that the first section of the partnership's board meetings will now be held in public. The second session will be held in private to discuss commercially senstive matters. This is the same approach taken in council meetings.

ONE Haverhill will also increase the number of town councillors on the board from two to four.

In September, Haverhill town council voted to request a number of transparency measures be adopted by ONE Haverhill, including making meetings public.

They said that if the measures were adopted, they would undertake administrative work for the partnership, but that if it was not, they would pull out of it.

TRANSPARENCY: Sarah Howard, chair of ONE Haverhill

This came after Inspector Peter Ferrie of Haverhill Police and town, borough and county councillor Tony Brown resigned from the board over the issue.

Chair of ONE Haverhill Sarah Howard MBE said: "There has been a great deal of debate about holding our board meetings in public.

"What we have come up with is a solution that appears to be agreeable to everyone, incorporating the proposals put to the ONE Haverhill Partnership by the Town Council.

"My own concern was that we hold our meetings in a way that is open but without us just being seen as a pseudo-council organisation or a further tier of local government, which we definitely are not.

"ONE Haverhill Partnership brings organisations together to get maximum value for Haverhill from public expenditure.

"In the past we have had annual public meetings, but at the last one we had only marginally more members of the public there than members of the board.

"Therefore we have agreed to have four board meetings over the next year and we will hold as much of each in public as we can."

The new terms of reference have been agreed among board members, and each of them will go to their governing body to request approval. This includes Haverhill Town Council, which will discuss the new terms at a meeting of the full council on Monday at Leiston Centre in Haverhill's Leiston Road at 7.30pm.

If all of the partner organisations agree, the terms will be adopted before the board's next meeting in the New Year.

HAVERHILL HEROES

Don't forget to nominate your local heroes

HANNAH MIRSKY
@HannahMirskyCN

THERE is just a week left to get your nominations in for the first Haverhill Heroes awards.

The awards – run by the News together with the Castle Partnership Academy Trust – seek to celebrate all aspects of Haverhill life, from young people to sporting achievements to food producers.

There is still an option for local businesses to get involved as the sponsor of the local food produce award. Sponsoring an award involves being part of the judging panel and helping to select a prize.

This award celebrates the delicious delicacies that are made in the local area.

Jason André, marketing and communications manager at the Castle Partnership Academy Trust, said "We have a wealth of excellent local food and produce. From local farm shops, to excellent butchers and a wide range of independent and chain restaurants. We're encouraging you to nominate your local food heroes and recognise the excellent work they do."

The sponsor of the volunteering award is now set to be local letting agent Preview Property.

The other categories you can still nominate for are business, volunteering, young people, the sporting award and act of kindness. Nominations close next Friday, December 18.

You can nominate an individual or group by filling out the form on the right and dropping it in the boxes at Haverhill Library and the Haverhill Arts Centre, or posting it to: The Haverhill News, Winship Road, Milton, Cambridge, CB24 6BQ.

You can read full descriptions of each of the award categories at cambridge-news.co.uk/haverhill and make nominations using the online form.

To inquire about becoming a sponsor for the local food produce award, email jandre@castlepartnership.org.uk.

CITIZENS' ADVICE

What to do if power goes off

IN the run-up to Christmas, as financial pressures from cold weather and the festive season set in, the News is running a series of columns from Citizens' Advice Suffolk West on how to save money this holiday season. This week, the experts let you know what to do if winter weather causes power cuts at your home.

Q.

Last winter I was hit by the storms and was left in the dark coping with long-term power cuts. How do I go about claiming compensation if this happens this year?

A.

If you're affected by a storm which left you without power for 24 hours or more, you may be able to claim compensation from your electricity network distributor. Whether you can claim depends upon the amount of time you were cut off and whether there were more than the usual number of high voltage faults on the network. Distribution companies make compensation payments when they do not meet the standards set by Ofgem, the energy regulator.

If you're eligible, you'll get £27 compensation, followed by an extra £27 for each further 12 hours you're affected. The maximum payment is £216.

Some electricity network distributors have committed to increase this standard payment for those affected over the Christmas period. UK Power Networks, the distributor for London, the South East and East Anglia, has increased its payment from £27 to £75 for customers who are without power for 48-60 hours over Christmas, with customers without electricity for longer getting more, up to a maximum of £432. They will write to affected customers.

If there are other costs that may have been incurred as a result of the power loss (such as food going off), or the related storm damage, this will not be covered by your network distributor, but might be able to be claimed on your household insurance.

Customers have three months after the date when power is restored to make a claim to the distribution company.

You can contact them directly by phone or online. Your Regional Network Operator is East Anglia (UK Power Networks) which can be contacted on 0845 601 5467.

Haverhill CAB can be found at Haverhill House, Lower Downs Slade, Haverhill, CB9 9EE. We offer a drop-in service for advice on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, from 10am to 1.30pm. Telephone advice is available on Thursday and Friday from 1.30pm – 3pm. The phone number is (01440) 762194. www.citizensadvice.org.uk also provides information. Volunteering opportunities are available.

FUNDING: Sessions will be held at Haverhill Leisure Centre Picture: Keith Jones

Leisure centre youth project gets £40k

SESSIONS to help young people who are not in education or work stay active will be running at Haverhill Leisure Centre next year – thanks to a generous £40,000 grant.

Abbeycroft Leisure has received the funding as part of the Greater Cambridgeshire Greater Peterborough LEP's Prize Challenge to support the charity and social enterprise sector.

The activity sessions will help young people develop the skills and self-confidence they need to find a job. This will include the chance to get leisure-related qualifications.

Warren Smyth, CEO of Abbeycroft Leisure, said: "We are really excited about providing this unique opportunity for young people across West Suffolk. They will not only learn skills that will help them to gain employment in the leisure industry but will have the opportunity to be physically active and improve their overall wellbeing including their self-confidence."

Abbeycroft will run the scheme across West Suffolk.

Your local vet surgery is here to care

LOCATED in the village of Linton, Belgrave House Veterinary Surgery has been caring for animals in the local community since 1985.

Run by David and Val Urwin with veterinary assistants Nick Bane, Tom Berry and Dinah Skertchly the practice is also supported by qualified nurses Claire Beck, Selina Cole, Nicole Dobbs and Laura Oxford and receptionists/nurse assistants Louise Fuller, Wendy Becker and Gill Burt. The talented and experienced team work hard to provide a caring, quality service for all pets and livestock.

"Being a small, independent, village based practice allows us to provide the warm, friendly and personal service you and your pet deserve," says Val. "We aim to ensure continuity in the treatment of all pets by our veterinary surgeons, two of whom now have more than 35 years' experience. If any case requires the expertise of veterinary specialists we can easily arrange referral to the most appropriate of the excellent referral facilities in the south east. In some cases the specialist will come and examine your pet at the practice." Specialists who regularly visit the practice include cardiologist Paul Smith and ophthalmologist David Williams.

Belgrave House Veterinary Surgery is able to supply full medical and surgical care and has digital x-ray, ultrasound and blood chemistry analyser facilities on site. All procedures requiring a full anaesthetic are continuously monitored by the one of the highly trained nurses utilising excellent monitoring systems. "We are blessed with wonderful clients and will always go the extra mile to ensure they and their pets get the best service possible," says David. "We are pleased to offer home visits for those occasions when it is not possible or desirable for our patients to visit us at the surgery."

CARING: The team at Belgrave House Veterinary Surgery

It is perhaps no surprise then that the majority of new clients registering with this practice come via recommendation from existing highly satisfied clients.

The veterinary surgery is open Monday to Friday from 8.30am to 7pm and Saturday from 8.30am to 12pm. There is convenient parking on site and a 24-hour on-site emergency service run by the same experienced team.

Belgrave House Veterinary Surgery is situated at 139 High Street, Linton, Cambridge, CB21 4JT. Consultations by appointment only.

For details please call the surgery on (01223) 893720.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Burglars steal tattoo equipment

POLICE are appealing for witnesses following a burglary in Haverhill in which tattoo equipment was stolen.

Suffolk Police issued the appeal after the burglary in Fisher Close, near Shetland Road in Haverhill, on Wednesday, December 2, between 12.20am and 5am.

The thieves gained entry to the house via the rear garden and while inside removed keys to the garden studio.

Distinctive tattoo equipment was stolen from the studio, including an almost new, bright orange Cheyenne Hawke Thunder gun and power unit, 70 new bottles of Fusion ink and 10 bottles of Eternal ink.

An Acer all-in-one computer was also removed.

From the house a 42" Samsung LED smart TV and an Apple MacBook were also stolen.

Police are asking for anyone who may have seen suspiciously activity in the area between the times stated or who has any information to contact Suffolk Police on 101 with the reference 18630/15.

Alternatively contact Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111 or through the anonymous online form at www.crimestoppers-uk.org.

East Anglia needs its own velodrome – campaigner

JOSH THOMAS
@JoshThomasCN

CAMPAIGNER: Lee Hellen wants to see a velodrome built

For more local news visit cambridge-news.co.uk/haverhill

A HAVERHILL Cycling Club member is leading a campaign to build an East of England velodrome.

Lee Hellen, 48, is part of the Campaign for a Velodrome for East Anglia, which already has more than 500 likes on Facebook. Its aim is to have a velodrome with banked tracks built in the Cambridge area.

The city has a strong cycling culture, but people wishing to cycle competitively have to travel to London or Manchester for a place to practise.

"Cambridge is the cycling capital of the UK," said Mr Hellen. "It has more bikes than any other city. I've spoken to a lot of people. I've had parents coming up and saying their children would love to get into it [competitive cycling] but it's too far to take them to the nearest velodrome on a regular basis.

"I know a lot of semi-pro cyclists in the area who would love to use something like this regularly. There's a whole lot of cyclists in the city and it would get mega use."

The campaigners would be looking for a site to house a track of 250 metres in circumference.

Mr Hellen, of Wash Farm, Little Wratting, said the campaigners were already considering sites on the outskirts of the Cambridge.

He also said a number of the cycle club members were big business owners who may be interested in investing.

However, Cllr Noel Kavanagh, Cambridgeshire County Council's cycling champion, said: "I don't know if there's any space. I heard there's a campaign to build one at Alconbury which, I think, would be a better place for one than the city. We are constantly battling congestion in the city and putting in a new sporting venue is a good idea, but we need to look at what it would contribute."

Find out more about the velodrome campaign at facebook.com/Cambridgeveladrimbe.

iLOVE CHRISTMAS BOOKS

SO many books, so little time - but if you give a book this Christmas, you can be guaranteed your loved ones will settle themselves down for at least an hour or two to escape the festivities and relax with a good read. Here are just a few of the books which may fit the bill...

FOOD AND DRINK

The Oxford Companion To Wine, edited by Jancis Robinson and Julia Harding (Oxford University Press, £40): This giant tome is a must for wine aficionados, combining meticulously-researched fact with refreshing opinion and wit. It's the fourth edition, completely revised since its 2006 predecessor, presenting almost 4,000 entries on every wine-related topic imaginable, from regions and grape varieties to the owners, connoisseurs, growers, trends and tasters.

A Year Of Good Eating: The Kitchen Diaries III by Nigel Slater (Fourth Estate, £30): Mouthwatering dishes abound in the third instalment of this impressive almanac, featuring such delicious offerings as chicken, haricot beans and lemon, quick fish chowder or simple fare like baked eggs with tomatoes. There are more than 250 recipes, moments and ideas for good eating, with seasonal sections for quick, weeknight eats. It'll keep the taste buds tingling well into the New Year.

TRAVEL

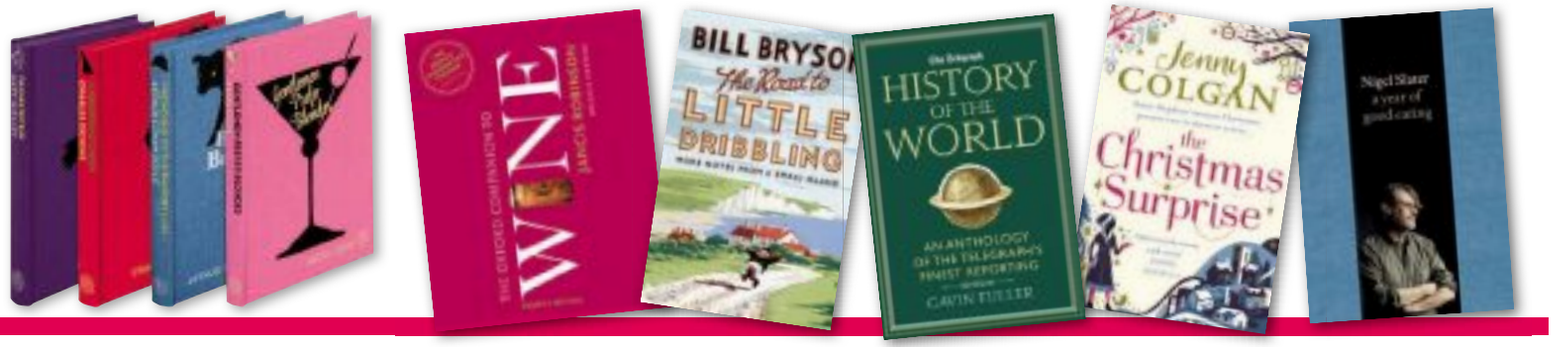

The Road To Little Dribbling: More Notes From A Small Island by Bill Bryson (Doubleday, £20): This amiable author guides us gently and humorously around his adopted country, some 20 years after his first trip around Britain led to his first bestseller. Travelling from Bognor Regis to Cape Wrath, through places that many never get to at all, Bryson rediscovers the beautiful, eccentric and endearingly unique county. Uplifting and funny, it's perfect during an hour or two of peace and quiet.

HISTORY

The Telegraph History Of The World, Edited by Gavin Fuller (Aurum Press, £20): If you want to know how the news has hit the headlines in the last 160 years, this fascinating book holds the answers. The paper sent Stanley to Africa; 22-year-old Churchill wrote from the North-West frontier for £5 a column, and Kipling from the front in the First World War. As well as wars, banking crises, terrorist attacks and elections, reporters of the day covered royal births and weddings, plus political scandal. Edited by the head of the Telegraph library, it's perfect for recalling news events for relatives, long after the Queen's Speech.

ROMANCE

Snowed In For Christmas by Claire Sandy (Pan, £7.99): A feel-good festive story about a woman who fled her village years ago, to return for Yuletide in Ireland with her eccentric family and her long-kept secret - a 16-year-old daughter keen to meet her relatives. And there's romance in the air when she meets a man in the snow.

I LOVE CHRISTMAS RECIPE

Rudolph's Fairy Cakes with Mincemeat

Preparation time: 10 minutes
Cooking time: 15 minutes to 20 minutes
Total time: 25 minutes to 30 minutes
Makes: 16

Ingredients

125g unsalted butter, softened
75g caster sugar
2 large eggs, beaten
125g self-raising flour
½ x 410g jar Waitrose Mincemeat
1 teaspoon baking powder
300g pot SuperCook Easy Ice
100g tub Waitrose Glacé Fruits Provençale Cherries

Cook's tips: If the cake mixture starts to curdle while beating in the eggs, add a little flour. These cakes will keep in an airtight container for 3-4 days.

Variation: Use alternative decorations such as silver balls, if you prefer.

- Recipe courtesy of Waitrose. Find this and 5,000 other recipes at waitrose.com/recipes

Method

1. Preheat the oven to 190°C / Gas Mark 5. Divide 16 paper cases between two bun tins.
2. Using an electric whisk, beat the butter and sugar until pale and creamy then whisk in the egg a little at a time.
3. Fold in the flour, mincemeat and baking powder. Divide the mixture between the cases and bake for 15-20 minutes until golden and firm. Transfer to a wire rack to cool.
4. Prepare the icing according to pack instructions, then spoon over the cakes, smoothing it with a round-bladed knife. Top each with a cherry.

MUSIC

The Fratellis' gig is back on . . .

BACK in the mid noughties, Scottish band The Fratellis were HUGE. With massive indie-disco favourites like Chelsea Dagger, Henrietta, Baby Fratelli and (our own personal favourite) Creepin Up The Backstairs, they had personalities as loud as their hits.

And then… it all went a bit quiet. Lead singer Jon formed a new band, Codeine Velvet Club, then went solo, while the brilliantly-named drummer Mince went heavy metal for a while, before joining up again with Jon who, by this time had gone solo. Still with us?

Okay, so the good news for those harbouring fond memories of the band is that they're now back together, and touring their latest album, Eyes Wide, Tongue Tied, which was released this summer to broadly positive reviews.

And the even better news, for those of you who may have been disappointed by the cancellation of their Cambridge date (originally scheduled for last month) is that whatever glitch in the regenerated band's matrix caused them to postpone has obviously now been resolved, and they're going to be here this very Sunday.

Phew. Fratellis: it's great to have you back.

The Fratellis, Cambridge Junction, Sunday, December 13, 7pm. Tickets £18.50 (adv) from junction.co.uk / (01223) 511511.

Tickets from the original date remain valid.

- With Christmas only a couple of weeks away, The Varsity Hotel and Spa will be hosting a special carol service on its stunning roof top terrace this week. There'll be festive fizz aplenty, with choir and congregational carols performed by leading choristers from Cambridge University, as well as mince pies and mulled wine to amp up the merriment factor.

And, the icing on the cake (or fairy on top of the Christmas tree, should I say?) you can marvel at the spectacular picture postcard views of the Cambridge skyline too.

For those looking to extend the festivities, there's also a chance to retreat to the hotel's restaurant, The River Bar Steakhouse & Grill, to dine on a festive three course meal. How very decadent.

Throw in Hugh Grant and Emma Thompson, and it's pretty much the real-life version of Love Actually.

Christmas choir service, The Varsity Hotel & Spa, Monday, December 14 at 7pm. Tickets £10, including drink and mince pie, from thevarsityhotel.co.uk or (01223) 306030.

■ The arts centre doesn't have any theatre/cinema events this week, too busy getting ready for Christmas! We must be getting closer to the 'season to be jolly' as tickets for this year's panto CINDERELLA are flying off the screen at a rate of knots!

BBC Radio 2's Janey Lee Grace is starring as the Fairy Godmother. She joins ITV's Britain's Got Talent finalist Phil Blackmore as he performs some hair-raising stunts and recreates the part of his act that made Simon Cowell squirm with fear and declare it to be "the scariest thing I have ever seen". As Buttons, Phil will be trying to impress Cinderella with his highly dangerous plans to juggle knives, bowling balls, Samurai swords, fire and even Jelly Babies!

From the world of the comedy stage comes Tommy Cooper Jus' Like That star, Phil Hoyles, and currently appearing in the stage version of Vicar of Dibley, David Pibworth, as the hilarious Ugly Sisters.

International Disney Cruise vocalist Katie Oughtibridge is the beautiful Cinderella with Joseph Gale from Shrek the Musical as the handsome Prince.

Cinderella's coach arrives at Haverhill Arts Centre daily from December 18-28 for what promises to be the best ever Christmas treat for the whole family.

With dazzling scenery, beautiful ball gowns, hilarious antics, unbelievable stunts and featuring the young stars from Lisa Mason's School of Dance along with fabulous live music, it's proving to be very popular…

More performances have already been added, but don't delay, book today to ensure the best seats for this year's pantomime.

■ Events to look forward to in the New Year include:

■ A recorded broadcast of The Nutcracker by the Bolshoi Ballet on Sunday, January 3, at 3pm

The Bolshoi Ballet: The Taming of the Shrew is being screened at the arts centre on January 31

English National Opera: The Mikado is being screened at the arts centre on January 27

■ The return of Dr Roger Simpson with a series of 10 weekly talks on some of the major monuments in world art and architecture and how they fit into their broader historical context

■ Centre Stage panto Rapunzel from Friday, January 22, to Sunday, January 24 and Thursday, January 27, to Saturday, January 30

■ A recorded broadcast from the English National Opera of The Mikado on Wednesday, January 27, at 7pm

■ A recorded broadcast by the Bolshoi Ballet of The Taming of the Shrew on Sunday, January 31, at 3pm.

ROAD TEST

Audi Q7 E-TRON

THE second-generation Q7 hasn't even reached its first birthday, but there's a new version just around the corner. Lighter, stiffer and packed with more technology than ever before, the new Q7 is exactly the kind of car that big Audi buyers are looking for. But this e-tron version is something altogether different.

Mixing diesel power with electric motors, the Q7 e-tron is a plug-in hybrid promising exceptional fuel consumption and emissions alongside similar performance, similar pricing and barely diminished practicality, although it still has to compete with the overall excellence of the standard car.

Looks and image

To look at, there's nothing to distinguish the electric Q7 from its combustion-only counterpart. If you're really paying attention, you may notice the additional filler flap, but the e-tron is as chunky and prestigious as the standard car. It's a matter of taste of course, but the Q7 has plenty of presence.

On the image front, Audi has always been strong, and while emissions issues may have had a negative effect, what better way to move on from that than with an SUV that can run on just electric power?

Space and practicality

The Q7 e-tron is unquestionably a sizeable car, but in e-tron guise there are a couple of compromises. The substantial battery pack sits in the boot where the third row of seats would normally sit, so the Q7 e-tron is a five-seater only, although you still get the flexibility of individual chairs in the second row that can slide and fold. The boot space is also reduced as a result, but there's still a sizeable 650 litres on offer with the seats in place.

The cabin itself is as spacious and comfortable as the standard Q7, with generous space front and rear as well as excellent materials. The Q7's virtual cockpit comes into its own here too, giving you a full update on what the complex power train is up to.

Behind the wheel

Complex it may be, but the Q7 makes life easy for you where driving is concerned. Defaulting to electric mode on start-up, acceleration from rest is smooth, near-silent and usefully brisk considering its size. There are four operation modes to choose from; EV mode, hybrid, battery save where the charge stays unused until you request it and battery charge, where the engine will charge the battery while you drive.

So far it's as with most other plug-in hybrids, but the Q7 has another trick up its sleeve. You can leave it in hybrid and it will engage the battery, the diesel engine or both depending on how you drive but if you use the sat-nav Predictive Assistant will determine what combination to use based on the road – and even the traffic – in the miles ahead.

As the driver all you notice is that this Q7 is even quieter than the standard car, and while the increased weight might mean it's not quite as quick or quite so agile, the potential economy results are worth the small sacrifice.

Value for money

On the one hand the Q7 in e-tron form is significantly more expensive than a comparable diesel model, but that extra outlay brings with it a number of significant advantages. As well as being obviously cleaner and greener than a standard diesel it qualifies for the Government's £5,000 grant, will pay no vehicle excise duty or London congestion charge. It would also bring substantial BIK savings for company car buyers.

Who would buy one?

Not everyone needs so much space and comfort of course so there are smaller plug-in hybrids and conventional electric cars that can be as frugal, but no rival can offer the same combination of comfort, space, luxury and economy all at the same time. Company car drivers will love it, families with the funds will love it too and active lifestyle types with a conscious might not baulk at the idea either. It's clever technology that is well executed and installed in a useful and desirable SUV.

factfile

AUDI Q7 E-TRON
Price: £65,000 (est)
Engine: 3.0-litre diesel unit plus electric motor producing 369bhp and 516lb/ft of torque
Transmission: Eight-speed automatic driving all four wheels
Performance: Top speed 140mph, 0-62mph in 6.0 seconds
Economy: 166.2mpg combined
Emissions: 46g/km of CO2

One in five would make the switch from petrol

ALMOST one in five (19 per cent) of motorists say they would consider a hybrid or electric vehicle as their next car, a new study has found.

Almost half (47 per cent) of this group said the potentially lower running costs – rather than the cut in emission levels – was the main attraction.

Some 1,555 British motorists took part in the survey which was commissioned for the RAC Report on Motoring 2015.

The motoring organisation warned that the figures demonstrate how changes to vehicle excise duty (VED) are likely to dampen enthusiasm for these vehicles.

Under current regulations cars which produce up to 100g/km of carbon dioxide are exempt from the tax.

But from 2017 only new cars which produce zero emissions will avoid VED. This means that lower-emission models will pay between £10 and £100 in the first year and then the standard annual rate of £140.

RAC chief engineer David Bizley accepted that the Treasury needs to take action to stabilise its income from VED in the wake of falling CO2 levels from new cars.

But he warned that the change in policy could have a detrimental impact on the popularity of low-carbon cars.

"As annual running costs play a significant part in the choice of a new vehicle, the removal of any VED benefit from running ultra-low-carbon vehicles, other than a pure electric vehicle, is bound to have an effect when motorists are weighing up the options," he said.

"We accept the current VED system needs to be changed, but the Government's plans to remove one of the financial benefits of running plug-in hybrid or extended-range electric vehicles – the fastest-growing part of the ultra-low emission vehicle market – could easily put some motorists off buying them."

Latest figures from the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders show that combined hybrid and electric car sales make up less than 3 per cent of the UK's new car market.

Being prepared for the winter weather

WITH the weather turning colder the Institute of Advanced Motorists (IAM) has plenty of expert advice to make sure the cold weather doesn't catch you unaware.

- Ensure your lights are working and keep a spare set of bulbs handy in the car.
- Check your washer bottle is filled with screenwash and that your windscreen wiper blades are working properly; they should not leave lines or smear the screen.
- Ensure all fluids are at the correct level and have them checked by a mechanic if you are unsure.
- Check the condition of your tyres regularly – the legal minimum for car tyre tread is 1.6 mm but you should consider replacing them before that for safety.
- Always carry a winter driving kit including an ice scraper, de-icer, blanket, torch, shovel, and a fully charged mobile phone.

Haverhill in agonising defeat to Renegades

HAVERHILL suffered a narrow 7-0 defeat to Cottenham Renegades in Greene King IPA Eastern Counties West Division Two.

Haverhill travelled to the game with a strong squad, and elected to play into the strong cross wind in the first half.

Cottenham dominated in the set piece with their front five causing Haverhill many problems, but Chris Flannery's skill at No 8 was proving crucial for the visitors.

Haverhill looked dangerous with the ball in hand, but they were just unable to create the line or angle to get over the line, and went in at the break at 0-0.

Darren Lister shored up the pack, but the only try of the game came from Cottenham after 50 minutes, with Haverhill having to settle for a losing bonus point.

Junior players impress

JUNIOR teams from Haverhill hosted Witham, with the under-nines winning both of their matches.

Liam Harwood, Oscar Mackman and Oliver Turner-Dockery impressed.

The under-eights played four, winning one, drawing one and losing two.

Sam Bishop, Oliver Singleton, Lanie Everitt, Amy Starr and Amelia Grey were among the star performers.

The under-sevens won three and lost one.

Sigler puts seal on Borough win

Football

HAVERHILL Borough moved into the quarter-finals of the Suffolk Senior Cup with a 3-1 win at home to Westerfield.

Playing against the wind, Matt Staines gave Borough the edge after just eight minutes after cutting inside from the left.

Craig Pruden forced visiting keeper Josh Silburn into blocking his effort only for the Touchline Suffolk & Ipswich League outfit to level just before the break when Ryan Swift burst through a gap and managed to beat keeper Charlie Turner one-on-one.

The hosts regained the lead four minutes after the interval when Staines fed Jonny Milne to fire home from the edge of the box.

Rory Bone fired against the base of the post on the hour, but Borough made the tie safe three minutes from time with Charlie Sigler supplying a cool finish after controlling a long clearance from Turner.

Haverhill Rovers were undone by a deflected goal in the 86th minute as they went down 2-1 at Gorleston in the Thurlow Nunn League, Premier Division.

Rovers fell behind with 14 minutes gone, Joel Watts racing through to beat goalkeeper Alex Archer, but they soon equalised as Blake Kicks was alert to bury a rebound.

The visitors felt their opponents' midfielder Kyle Ingram should have been sent off just before the break following an incident involving Will Gardner, but the referee only showed a yellow card.

And Gorleston bagged the points late on when Tom Markham's strike looped in off Marcus Hunt.

Rovers also suffered defeat in the last eight of the Suffolk Premier Cup as Lowestoft ran out 4-2 winners.

Ryan Weaver and Gardner were on target for Rovers against the side three divisions above them.

Top spot for Lyons and Ashcroft

Golf

TERRY Lyons and Graham Ashcroft will represent Haverhill in next year's men's Daily Mail Foursomes.

The pair scored 39 points in the club's stableford qualifier, which included birdies on the 11th, 15th and 17th holes.

Martin Mansfield and Allen O'Donoghue were second on 38, and Dave Pipe and Dan Wilkins were one behind them in third.

Judy Farren won the ladies' midweek stableford on 25, with Mary Sail two back in second and Doreen Crosbee third on 19.

However, the event was declared a non-qualifier due to the ground conditions.

Mandy Williamson and Elaine Ward were the only two players to brave the blustery conditions in the Saturday stableford.

Williamson took victory with 32 and Ward finished on 25.

Andy Fish linked up with Stowmarket's Phil Fairbrother and the Stoke-by-Nayland duo of Roger Toone and Nick Forsyth to finish third at the latest Suffolk Winter Alliance pro-am.

The foursome were beaten into second in the team event on countback by Chris Clark, Roger Gardiner, John Partridge and Gareth Morgan after both groups scored 84 on the Hintlesham course.

The team competition was won by Trevor Holley and Paul Presland, both of Stowmarket, and the home pair of Kevin Brooks and Keith Tarrant with 86.

A total of 88 players and seven professionals competed in the event, which saw Stowmarket pro Sam Forgan take the top prize in their event after carding a five under par round of 67.

John Major, of Felixstowe Ferry, took second place with 71 and third place went to Tim Cooper, of Newton Green, with 72.
